1910

To the spirit of

Illinois
Loyalty

This Volume is affectionately
Dedicated

The MAKERS of This BOOK

This is the story of the year.

In it are told the things that you and your acquaintances and your friends have done.

It is offered that you may not forget in future years
what you have accomplished here.

To you who read it,

Greeting.

THE CLASS OF 1909

A half century ago marks an event worthy of recording alongside of great deeds which contribute toward the making of the world's history. It was then that the famous class of 1909 shifted the responsibility of the University of Illinois welfare onto the shoulders of the three under classes, and prepared to startle the world with its new and original plans and ideas.

Never before nor since has a class been known to pass out from any university, leaving such a perfect record—a record that is almost unparalleld in so far as great deeds are concerned. History records show that this class, upon entering the great state university, was first heard from upon the winning of the annual contest between the under classmen—the Color Rush. The class, it seems, not content with this victory, soon afterward won the admiration of the general public when a picked few of its representatives humbled the sophomores in a debate that was replete in spectacular oratory and unusual weighty argument. The Sophomore Cotillion, Junior Prom, and Senior Ball exemplified the originality of the class along social lines. Probably the Junior Smoker was conducive of one of the greatest steps taken by any class of Illinois, because it was there that the present Student's Union originated, and the success of that organization is due largely to the originality and untiring efforts of certain members of the Class of 1909. Illinois owes a great debt of gratitude to this class for her present standing in athletics, for the records left by nineteen nine's athletes are those made by men renowned the world over for their athletic prowess. In one year, nine out of eleven varsity emblems awarded in football, the nucleus and mainstay of the world's championship college baseball team, record breakers and conference winners in track, all point to the superiority of nineteen nine's representatives in varsity athletics. Notwithstanding the loss of such men to teams which maintained the high standard of Illinois athletics, the class always figured prominently in inter-class games, the winning of the class championship in football in 1908 demonstrating her superiority in this branch of college sport. It was only natural that a class which furnished such an exceptional amount of strong material for athletics, should upon bidding farewell to its proud Alma Mater, leave as a fitting memorial, a handsome fountain, which stands today on the athletic field as a monument to a class

Whose deeds have placed her bright among
The galaxy of classes gone;
There long her grandeur shall appear,
The wonder of each coming year,
A pole star for the Future's throng
Who walk the path she trod, alone.

MAY POLE REVIEW

THE first May-pole at Illinois was given under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Lincoln, in May, 1898. Twenty-four girls then plaited the orange and blue on the pole, which was on the south campus. The waltz and the two-step were the only steps used in the first May-pole. The second year the number of participants increased to fifty-two, and each year it has been increased until now over two hundred girls take part. The May-pole has grown too large for the south campus, and now it is given on Illinois Field. Each year new features have been added until now the milk-maids' dance, the garland drill, the waltz circle, and many other dances are given. Last year the Old English May-pole dance was given in costume by fifteen girls. Old English musicians played the accompaniment.

It has been through the untiring interests of Mrs. Lincoln and her assistant instructors that the girls at Illinois have been able to give this May-pole dance every year. Let us hope that each year we may see this grand old tradition and that each year it will be better than it was the preceding year.

The Men Who Have Served Us for

FOREST CLYDE VAN HOOK

Captain Van Hook, three years All-Western guard, is one of the most popular players in the history of Illinois football. We have never had a guard who possessed greater ability than that which Van Hook has exhibited in the past three years. For a man of his size and weight, his play has been little short of marvelous. It is safe to say that there never has been a football player in the west or in the east who has figured more in plays than has Van Hook. Innumerable times he has broken and smashed up plays when a touch down seemed imminent. Eckersall, the greatest football critic in the west, in summing up the play of last year, stated that Van Hook could play any position on the all western football team from quarterback to every position in the line and back of the line, and that he would be a star at any of them. Those who have seen Van Hook in one of his whirlwind games will concur in this view. Van Hook was head and shoulders above any guard in the country last year, but he received but little recognition from the eastern critics.

FRED LOUIS WHAM

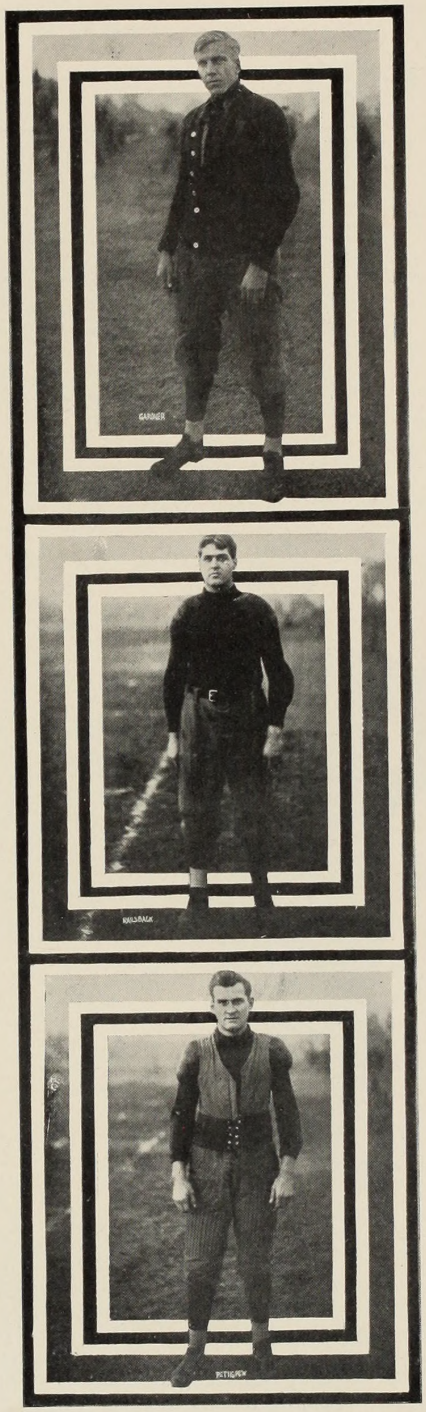

Wham was without doubt the greatest tackle in the west this year, and was given a place on the all western team by every critic in the west. An eastern official, who had noticed Wham's brilliant work in smashing up plays and blocking punts, said there was no man on the eastern teams who could equal this great Illinois tackle. If Wham had been playing on the Chicago team he doubtless would have been given a position, which he deserved, on the All-America team. Wham has played in all Varsity games within the past three years, and through his hard work, pluck, and endurance, has made the remarkable record of never having been forced to take out time. A natural-born football player, aided by his great strength, skill, and endurance, he is a man that has always been feared by his opponents, and during his entire football career has outplayed every man that he has encountered.

POMEROY SINNOCK

Pomeroy Sinnock, the star quarter back for the Orange and Blue team for the past two years, came to his own at the introduction of the so-called new style football, and his ability with the forward pass, a most necessary essential in the new game, and the on-side kick, has never been equalled. His judgment in directing plays is remarkable, and his work in running back punts is phenomenal. The smallest man on the western gridiron, he not only ran the team well, but showed on occasions when necessary and vital, a power of rising to the emergency and carrying the team with him in deliberate but deadly certainty of attack that wins games. On the bleachers during the Northwestern game an ex-Princeton football man was asked how Sinnock compared with the eastern quarter backs, and his reply was: "I have seen Tad Jones, have played with Dillon, and have seen the best quarter backs in the east for the past five years, and I can frankly say that Sinnock, in my opinion, is the superior of them all. If on an eastern team he would unanimously be conceded a place on the All-America team."

"What shall I do to be forever famous?"—RAY SPARKS.

the Last Time on the Gridiron

LION GARDINER

"Gard" has been one of the old standbys on the team, and to him must be attributed the nucleus of this year's famous team. He was Captain of the team two years ago, and was the one who instilled the "fight" into the men. Today Illinois football men have that great accomplishment which is so needed in football. Gardiner's work back of the line showed up wonderfully for two years, and he had the reputation of being the best punter in the west. His punts were remarkable for their distance, and he also had the ability to place his kicks well. It was expected when "Gard" returned last fall that he would be the greatest half back in the west, but sickness overtook the star, and he was not able to don a suit until the season was well over. Always hopeful of regaining his old-time form, "Gard" worked hard and trained consistently; but the season was too far gone, and he showed only flashes of his old-time performances.

FAY DILLON RAILSBACK

Placed on the All-Western team by many critics, Railsback is one of the best men who ever donned the Orange and Blue. He has been playing in the tackle position for three years, and this year had the added responsibility of punting, which duty he has ably taken care of. He is also a dangerous man at place-kicking when within striking distance of the goal, and the last year has demonstrated this ability several times. Railsback has played spectacular football for three years. Versatility, alertness, and daring have been the features of Railsback's playing. One of the heaviest men on the western gridiron, he is also one of the shiftiest and fastest. In receiving the forward pass he has no equal in the west; in the Northwestern game he received the ball on a forward pass no less than eight times, a feat that has never been performed before. Railsback is extremely fast in getting down the field, and was usually found in every play.

JAMES QUINTON PETTIGREW

Pettigrew is the fastest man on the Western gridiron. For three years "Petty" has played a back field position, and has always shown himself a strong, heady player. He has excellent ground gaining qualities, especially on end runs on the offense, and is good at diagnosing plays on the defense. "Petty" is a hard and consistent worker, and his work is admirably suited to the new style of play. Many times during his football career he has helped the team to score by intercepting forward passes. There were few games in which "Petty" has not electrified the spectators by his runs of from ten to thirty yards. His play has been exceptionally brilliant the last year, and his work showed up wonderfully well in the Chicago game.

"The best of men have ever loved repose."—DUTCH WERNSING

FOOTBALL REVIEW, 1908

THAT football in 1908 was successful at the University of Illinois is evident to any one who followed the work of the team during the season. From the beginning the outlook for a winning team, to those who were closest in touch with the situation, appeared favorable. With Artie Hall as head coach, the veterans who had returned felt that the chances to win had not been brighter for several years. When Hall took charge of the team in September, he found that he had a nucleus of almost a full team of "I" men about which to build his gridiron machine. Besides these veterans, there was an abundance of excellent material to be drawn from the reserves and freshmen of the previous year. Keen disappointment was felt that Lion Gardiner was forced to remain out of the game until late in the season, for the veteran half back and ex-captain would have added materially to the strength of the team in the game with Chicago. With this excellent material available, Coaches Hall and Lindgren set to work with the hope of building up a team that would be worthy of the hearty support of the student body of the University of Illinois and a strong contender for the Western championship.

CAPT.-ELECT BAUM

That they succeeded cannot be doubted. Individually and collectively the men worked hard and consistently to perfect their own playing and that of the team. Probably a cleaner lot of men and athletes never represented Illinois on an athletic team. There was absolutely no rowdyism in any of the games, the players at all times conducting themselves in such a manner as to merit the respect of the most loyal rooter. There was not a "quitter" on the team, every man playing the game with all the vim and daring he possessed throughout the seven games of the schedule.

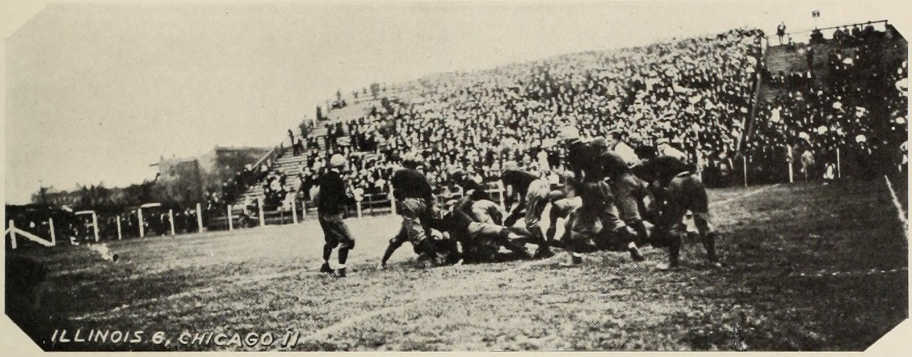

CAPT. VAN HOOK

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the part played by the reserves in shaping the destinies of the team. While a comparatively few men did most of the playing in the big games, the consistent work of the team is largely due to the fact that whenever a regular was forced to leave the game, there was another player of almost equal ability ready to step into his position. In fact, it was a difficult task in many instances for Coaches Hall and Lindgren to decide on whom should be in the line-up at the start of the games.

One result of the season's work was to bring into prominence several men whose playing ranked with that of any man in the west playing the same position. Some of these men, Sinnock, Wham, and Railsback, were given positions on the All-Western team, while many others were given honorable mention. Pomeroy Sinnock, the midget quarterback, by his brilliant work at running the team, using the forward pass, and carrying the ball, made himself feared by all the opponents of the Illini. Fred Wham and Fay Railsback were a pair of the best offensive and defensive tackles the west saw this season. Wham's most effective work lay in his ability to break through the line and play havoc with the opponents' plays. Railsback proved himself to be a master hand at getting down the field and receiving "Pom's" wonderful forward passes. Pettigrew was beyond doubt one of the most reliable men on the team, and with such running mates as Bremer, Watson, Gumm, Bernstein and Richie formed a back field that was a terror to those who were forced to meet its attack. These back field men, with the exception of "Petty," who is lost by graduation, will undoubtedly be heard from next fall. As line men, Butzer, Hull, Twist and Purnell deserve great praise for their work. The wing positions were well taken care of by Richards and Captain-elect Baum. Richards, while very light, was one of the nerviest and speediest players on the team. Benny Baum, by his consistent playing and handling of the forward pass, has well earned the honor of leading the team in 1909.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the value of the training received from the Monmouth and Marquette games. Many of the weaknesses of the Illini were pointed out in these early season games and were rectified before any of the teams of the Big Eight were met. The game with Chicago on Marshall field, October 17, is one which will long be remembered by all who witnessed the contest. The first half of the game was very close, Chicago having the advantage of a fairly strong wind, and it was largely due to this that the half ended with the score 5 to 0 in favor of the Maroons. In the second half the Orange and Blue struggled fiercely to overcome this lead, but Dame Fortune looked the other way that day, and Chicago won by a score of 11 to 6. The feature of the game was a battle between Sinnock and Steffens, the Illini general proving himself the superior of the Maroon star. There is little doubt in the minds of the players and the faithful 2,500 loyal rooters of the Orange and Blue that with an even break of luck the score would have been in their favor.

Indiana came to Illinois Field October 31 for the first time in several years and suffered defeat by a score of 10 to 0. The low score was due to the fact that Indiana took out a great deal of time, thus interfering with the sequence of many of Illinois' trick plays. Time after time an Illinois player evaded the Indiana ends and was prevented from making long gains by the continued delaying of the game.

Iowa, too, November 7, journeyed to Illinois Field and lost by a decisive score of 22 to 0. The Illini had not forgetten their defeat at the hands of the Hawkeyes the previous year, and went into this game with the determination to bring about a different result this year. In the first half Coach Catlin's men fought valiantly to prevent the Varsity from scoring, but in spite of their efforts the score stood 6 to 0 at the end of the first half in favor of Illinois. It was in the second half that Iowa's defense was swept off its feet by the line plunges and open style play of the Illinois team. Many substitutes were sent into the game by Hall and Lindgren, and toward the close of the game almost an entire team of new men were in the line-up.

The husky Hawkeyes having been disposed of, the Illini a week later went to La Fayette to meet the Boilermakers on their own field. The day of the game was extremely cold and seemed to slow up the work of the team. It was in this game that Richards proved himself to be a great player by twice overtaking Purdue men with the ball when touch-downs seemed certain. Wham and Railsback, the star tackles, distinguished themselves by scoring all the points for the Illini, Railsback adding 4 points to the score by kicking Illinois' only field goal this season. The final score was: Illinois 15, Purdue 6.

The final game was played on Illinois Field November 21, with Northwestern as the opposing team. The game was played under the most favorable conditions and brought forth a great crowd to see the last appearance of some of Illinois' greatest football players. After the slight slump of the week before, the Varsity went into this game with the full belief that they could give their old-time "hoodoo" a trouncing. The result of 64 to 8 in favor of Illinois was all that could be expected.

A winning team may be looked for next fall. A number of the members of this year's Varsity will be eligible to follow Captain-elect Baum through another successful season. Several of these men were developed this year and should stand forth as stars in 1909. Especially should Watson, Gumm and the other men who have had the advantage of this year's training be of almost invaluable service to the team. The freshman team was of exceptional strength and several valuable recruits may be taken from it to fill up the gap left vacant by the graduation of some of the best players on this year's Varsity. There will probably be a hard fight for the several positions and this should add materially to the strength of the team.

With this excellent material of players on hand, with Artie Hall and Justa Lindgren again at the helm, and with the continued loyal support and confidence of the rooters, the future of football at Illinois seems bright.

"Going, going, but not yet gone."—BESS STEVENSON.

JAMES BLAINE SNYDER

James Blaine Synder, Varsity first baseman for three years and captain during his last year, began his collegiate career here in the autumn of 1905. "Jimmy" made the team in his first year. His subsequent achievements at the initial sack have placed him in the front rank of great first basemen who have played under the tutelage of Coach Huff. Snyder's playing was always strictly free from frills. Steady simplicity, marvellous accuracy, were the features of "Jimmy's" game. He never played to the grandstand nor to the bleachers, but he incubated thrills in the hearts of the multitude on many occasions by leaping into the air, spearing the flying ball with one hand and getting his man, or by digging vicious low throws out of the dirt. Snyder's big bat had a penchant for hitting the horse hide squarely "on the nose," and the consequent doubles and triples made much for victory in many a game. Excellent hitting and base-running ability, and remarkable prowess as a fielder, made Snyder one of the most efficient and popular players in the baseball history of Illinois.

MARK DEEMS DISOSWAY

Disosway sat on the bleachers and watched the Varsity win two western championships before the baseball fever actuated him to strive seriously for the attainment of diamond honors. "Dis" entered the University in 1903. Late in the season of 1906, after having served worthily as manager and center fielder on the second team, he was given a chance to trample daisies out in the center garden of Illinois field while a real Varsity game was being played. Given the opportunity "Dis" made good from the start. He wound up the season like a veteran, and when the galaxy of stars was segregated on the following spring Disosway shone among the lucky ones. He played a great game that season, and, allured by his success, came back for the last semester of the succeeding year to round out his three years of Varsity baseball. "Dis" was wont to pull the "hit and run" stunt off with amazing regularity, though occasionally he rapped out a home run just to vary the monotony of the bunting game. A remarkable coolness under fire added much to Disosway's value as a factor in the winning of western championships.

JOHN EMERY MORRISON

There have been better catchers than Jack Morrison at Illinois, but no University ever had a receiver who was more willing to do his utmost to win a victory. Jack played every game, whether momentous or trivial, just as zealously as big leaguers play a world championship contest. His fighting Celtic spirit was in the ascendancy from the moment he crouched to receive the first ball until the bat boys began to gather up the willows. Morrison entered the University in the autumn of 1904. He went out for the team in his first year, but his baseball ability had not developed sufficiently to enable him to gain a position on the catching staff. Star receivers stood between him and the coveted place during the next season. In 1907 he shared catching honors with Gunning, and in 1908 he played the same role with "Louie" Mason. Morrison was fast on bases, and his frequent flashes of good hitting aided materially in winning games.

ERNEST G. OVITZ

Ernest G. Ovitz, who completed his athletic career at Illinois last spring after having won the distinction of being classed as the premier pitcher in college baseball, entered the University in the autumn of 1905. He reported for fall practice and electrified local fandom by the success of his initial performance on the firing line. The small-sized freshman recruit made the Varsity veterans biff the atmosphere with disconcerting regularity. When the spring practice began Ovitz had little trouble in winning a regular place on the Varsity pitching staff. During the three years that he played he was the supreme idol of the fans and the most prominent factor in maintaining Illinois' fame as champions of the West. Ovitz was a spectacular pitcher. Few were the hits garnered off his quick, deceptive delivery by opposing teams. His strike-out record has never been equalled at Illinois. It was not alone in the effectiveness of his twirling, however, that "Ernie" led the other college pitchers. His ability as a base runner, fielder and hitter, helped him to win many of his own games. "Ernie" Ovitz's name will always stand high in the galaxy of Illinois baseball stars.

Good looks run in our family, but they ran clear past me."—PAUL FLANDERS.

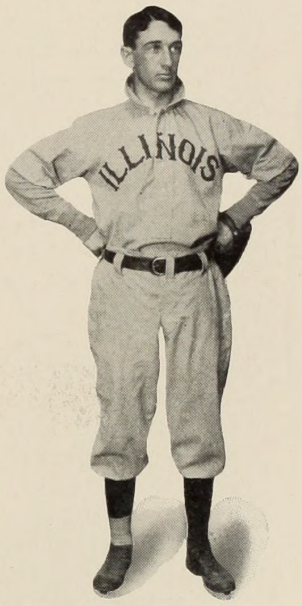

BASEBALL REVIEW, 1908

THE call for candidates, immediately after the Christmas vacation, was answered by about two hundred aspirants. The outlook at the beginning was anything but bright. Of the team the year before only one infielder, one catcher and an outfielder, remained. Several of the old men graduated and others were barred by the three-year rule, so it was a question, practically, of getting a new team. Everybody was asking "Who is going to play second?" "Who will make third?" "Who is the best pitcher?" "What will we do without Dickie at short?" These questions began to answer themselves after the squad began to play practice games out of doors. It became evident that Morrison and Mason would be able to take care of the backstop work in good style. The infield took shape in the form of Captain Snyder at first, Righter at second, Shields at short, and Penn at third. For the outfield Disosway and Schaeffer were given the honors, the other field being occupied by the idle pitcher. In the box the team was particularly strong. Ovitz, Heinrichsen and Buzick did the twirling, and, largely due to their efforts, the team won the western championship. Ovitz only played four games, being declared ineligible.

CAPT. SNYDER

The first game was played with the Boston Americans, April 6. Heinrichsen did the pitching and allowed the big leaguers only five hits. The team lost, however, due to weak stick work. The score was 4 to 0. The Chicago White Sox came for two games, April 9 and 10. Both were good games, but inability to hit left the run column vacant, and the leaguers took the games by the scores of 5 to 0 and 1 to 0.

CAPT.-ELECT PENN

The college season opened April 17 at Madison, Wis. Heinrichsen and Penn pitched the game. Illinois won easily, the score being 14 to 3. The feature was the heavy hitting of the Illinois team. Captain Snyder led with four clean smashes. From here the team journeyed to Minnesota, playing the Gophers on April 18. The field was wet and sloppy, and after a battle for nine innings the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of Minnesota. Heinrichsen pitched and should have won with any kind of stick work by his team mates. The defeat opened the eyes of the players to the fact that it took more than a name to beat other teams. From Minnesota the team came back to Chicago, playing the Maroons on April 20. Buzick pitched the game and the Illini won by the score of 6 to 2. After returning to Champaign, Iowa came for two games. Both were good, Illinois winning by the scores of 2 to 0 and 3 to 1. Indiana and Purdue were beaten in games at Champaign, April 28 and May 2. However, the Purdue game was a close one, and, until the last man was out, no one felt sure of the outcome. The score was 3 to 2. The Indiana score was 6 to 3.

Wisconsin and Minnesota came for return games at Illinois. Everybody looked forward to the Minnesota game as the hardest of the season. The crowd on the field to see this game was immense. But, contrary to expectations of the rooters, the game was the most one-sided of any during the season. Ovitz pitched, striking out twelve men and allowing only one hit. Heavy hitting by the Varsity and poor fielding by the Gophers gave victory to Illinois by the score of 16 to 0. This game proved the claim of many, that Minnesota's former victory was a lucky one.

During Interscholastic the Maroons played two games on Illinois Field, May 15 and 16. The first was one continuous slaughter of Page's slants. The score was 12 to 1. The second game, however, was a pretty one and even more so for a home crowd. Until the seventh inning the score was 1 to 0 in favor of Chicago. After two were out and no one on base in the last of the seventh, Buzick drove a three-bagger to right. Disosway was up and a great deal depended on what he would be able to do. He proved equal to the occasion, beating out a hit to short and tying the score. The Illini scored two more in the eighth on bunts by Penn and Snyder and a hit by Schaeffer. The game ended 3 to 1 in favor of the Varsity. Ovitz pitched the first game and Heinrichsen the second. The fourth time the team met Chicago was on Marshall Field, May 29. The ground was wet and slippery, making it hard to handle ground balls. Due to a combination of hits and errors, the Maroons won by the score of 7 to 6.

The only real beating for the team came at Lafayette, June 5. The Boilermakers scored three runs while Huff's men failed to cross the plate. Only three hits were made off of Heinrichsen, but that was enough to win for Purdue. The game was a pitcher's battle between Rice and "Heinie." Score: Purdue 3, Illinois 0.

On May 6 the team closed its season, playing Indiana at Bloomington. The Hoosiers led until the eighth inning, when Buzick came to the rescue with a home run, after two were out and the bases clear. This evened up the count. In the ninth inning Captain Snyder scored Shields from second with a clean single to right. The game ended 5 to 4, with Illinois leading.

Of the fourteen games played eleven were won and three lost. The team as a whole hit hard. Heinrichsen led the bunch with an average of 425. Ovitz, Penn, Schaeffer and Buzick were above the 300 mark. The team work in the field was a source of downfall to several opponents. No one knew when Mason would catch a runner off first or third with an accurate snap throw. The fielding of a number of the men was above the ordinary. Few errors were chalked up against the infielders and the outfield hits were taken care of in league style.

Next year's team will miss the services of Ovitz, Snyder, Morrison and Disosway. Other men will develop to take their places, but these men will not soon be forgotten. With the Varsity freshman team and this year's Varsity squad to pick from, the 1909 team should uphold the reputation of Illinois by again winning the Western championship. With "G" as coach everybody feels sure of a winning team and is ready to support the game, making Illinois, as it has been for years past, the greatest baseball school in the country.

Illinois Track Heroes Who Have Heard Gill's Last Call

WILLIAM WYMAN MAY

That "Billy" May is the best piece of sprinting machinery the west has ever produced, and one of the most consistent sprinters on the American continent, is the general and candid opinion of athletic authorities in the United States. During the past three years "Billy" has been supreme in the west. Twice he has defeated the great Huff in the century event in the conference, and in 1907 Huff was the recognized champion sprinter in the country, having defeated the best dash men on both sides of the water. "Billy" was a member of the famous Olympic track team, which won the world's championship, and although in poor shape won his heat, and lost out in the semi-final, only firsts qualifying. It is safe to say that had May been in any kind of condition he would have undoubtedly won the short dash. "Billy" has been one of Gill's hard workers, and thus as track captain set a very good example to the other men.

EDWARD FERDINAND JACOB LINDBERG

"Lindy" Lindberg hails from Iowa, and there startled the natives by his athletic ability. Coming from the Central Y. M. C. A. in Chicago as a distance man, where he had an enviable record in the half and mile runs, "Lindy" has been developed by Coach Gill into the best quarter-miler the Orange and Blue ever had, and into one of the best point winners in the west. He has a habit of electrifying the spectators by his wonderful running, and the next day the Chicago papers come out somewhat like this: "The most exciting event of the meet was the quarter mile, which was won by Lindberg in sensational fashion." "Lindy" has also been a member of the relay team for four years, and, with the exception of his first year, has always run the last relay. In the conference relay last year, which was won by the Orange and Blue, "Lindy's" time for the quarter was 49 4-5 seconds, a pace which equals the western intercollegiate record for the 440. Lindberg has twice broken the indoor quarter-mile record and the indoor three-lap record. He has also equalled the outdoor record in the quarter.

LION GARDINER

Gardiner has been as successful in track work as he has been in football. Coming from the South Division High School in Chicago, as he did, where he had been one of the stars of the team, it did not take Gill long to see that "Gard" was of Varsity calibre, and he has since that time been one of the mainstays of the Illinois track team. "Gard's" pet event was the low hurdles, and for two consecutive years he won points in this event at the conference. During his second year his work showed up brilliantly, and those who saw the 1907 conference meet will never forget the 220-yard hurdle race which decided the meet. The score stood 28 to 23 1-3 in favor of Illinois against Chicago, and the hurdle race was the last event. If Chicago won first and second the meet was lost to the Illini. It was a maddened crowd that saw the athletes crouch and start. Down the stretch came Gardiner, Merriam, and Steffens, running neck and neck. The three went over the last hurdle together, all fighting furiously to the finish; Merriam won by a scant two inches, "Gard" won second, giving Illinois the meet, and that was all that was required. Gardiner's name will always be connected with the 1907 champion conference team.

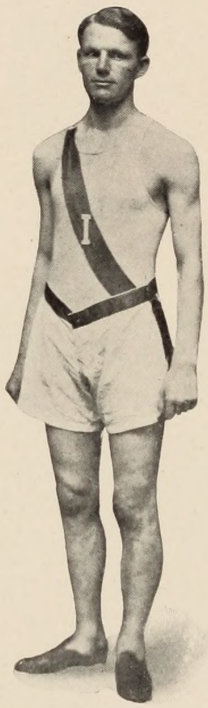

EDWIN MILTON JENKINS

Jenkins is one of the most versatile track athletes Illinois has ever had. Coach Harry Gill, the best track coach in the west, found that he could use Jenkins in the 100, 220, 440-yard dashes, the hurdles, the broad jump, and the relay, as well in one event as in the other; and Jenkins has proved his worth in all of these events. Jenkin's greatest burst in the athletic world, however, was when he upset all the western calculations in the conference meet in 1907, when he won first in the broad jump, practically winning the conference meet for Illinois, for the first time in the history of Orange and Blue athletics. "Jenk" was most successful indoors as a hurdler, and time after time took the measure of the Chicago hurdlers. Although trying the hurdles for the first time last year, he created in the 40-yard high hurdles, a new gymnasium record, which is likely to remain for some time.

TRACK REVIEW, 1907-08

THE track season of 1908, while not as successful as the previous one, was on the whole very gratifying to the followers of track athletics at Illinois. The three-year rule, which deprived us of Burroughs, Barrett, Smith, Carrithers, Van Inwagen and Norris, was in a large measure responsible for the failure to duplicate last season's record. At the opening of the track season of 1908 Coach Gill had only a few veterans on whom to depend, but he was fortunate in having several star athletes from the previous freshman team. By hard work he succeeded in organizing by the first meet a fairly well balanced team.

On February 1, Indiana was defeated in the local gymnasium by the one-sided score of 67½ to 1½. This meet did not show the real strength of the team, but it showed that we had the material for a team that would be a strong contender for conference honors. The lack of competition made good records impossible. The best performance of the meet was by Pettigrew, who equalled the gymnasium record of 4⅕ seconds in the 35-yard dash.

CAPT.-ELECT HANLEY

The first real test came on February 14, when the Maroons made their first appearance in the local gymnasium. The result showed that Illinois had another winning track team. Chicago was defeated by a score of 52 to 34. Lindberg and Jenkins were the stars of the meet. Lindy beat Quigley in the 440, in 53⅕, establishing a new gymnasium record, and then enabled Illinois to win the relay by his excellent work on the last quarter. Jenkins showed Steffen his heels in the high hurdles in record time. Washburn defeated Schommer in the high jump, and Miller ran away with the two-mile in easy fashion.

Coach Wilson brought his First Regiment athletes to Champaign the next week and they were snowed under to the tune of 59⅓ to 26⅔. The work of our stars, Burroughs, Carrithers, and Reinnacher, who were barred from other meets by the conference rules, was responsible for the size of the Illinois score. Hanley did the best work for the Varsity, winning the 880-yard in 2 minutes 5 seconds.

Chicago had her revenge on us at Bartlett gymnasium in the return meet in March, defeating us by a score of 55 to 31. Everything seemed to break wrong for us from beginning to end, and we lost events that we had counted on as sure. Chicago must be given credit for several fine performances in this meet, particularly those of Schommer in the high jump and shot put, and Garrett in the 880-yard run.

Burroughs was the only Illinois man to be sent east to the Pennsylvania Relays last spring, but he represented us in splendid style, winning both the shot put and hammer throw from the best athletes in the east.

"A bit of cuteness that will never shine in society without stilts."—HESS Α Χ Ω

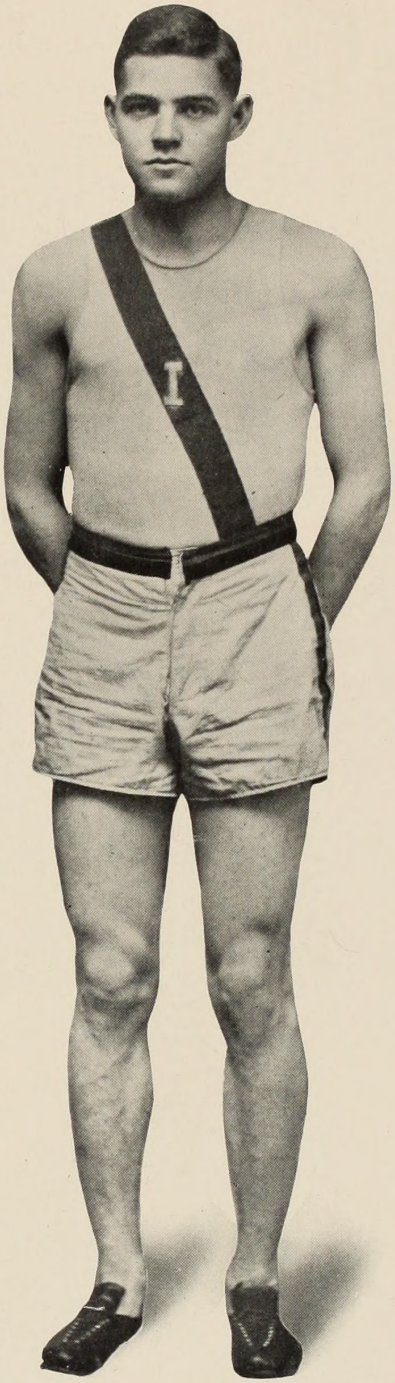

The outdoor season opened with a victory over Wisconsin at Madison, May 10, by a score of 68 to 58. The meet was hotly contested from beginning to end, and the result was not assured until the last event when Railsback won the hammer throw. Watson, with a jump of 22 feet 6 inches, made the best performance of the meet.

On May 16, Coach Stagg's Maroons were defeated on Illinois Field before a large crowd of Interscholastic visitors. The score, 67½ to 58½, shows the evenness in strength of the two teams. Jenkins, for the second time, won from Steffen in the high hurdles, and Hanley won the 880-yard run in splendid style. Foreman upset all dope by defeating Caldwell and McFarland, who were considered as sure winners in the 2-mile run. Lindberg and Merriam had their usual desperate struggle in the 440, but the Maroon was just a step to the good. Brundage distinguished himself by beating Maddigan in the discus throw.

The last dual meet of the season was with Purdue on Illinois Field, May 22, but was too one-sided to be interesting. The feature of the meet was the wonderful work of Kinkead, the Purdue distance runner, who won both mile and half, in record time.

The conference meet was a disappointment, for, after an excellent showing during the year, our hopes were high for another championship title. All dope showed that Chicago, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Leland Stanford had about equal chances and that a little luck would decide the meet. Illinois entered the meet under a serious handicap, owing to the injury to Watson which made it impossible for him to take a place in the broad jump, an event that he had been counted on to win. Jenkins was also kept out of the meet on account of injuries.

Lindberg took second in the 440. Gardiner duplicated his performance of last year and annexed three points in the 220-yard hurdles. May won the 100-yard dash and took second in the 220. Brundage added three more points in the discus throw. Jocko Jones climbed over the bar at 11 feet 9 inches for a third place in the pole vault. The relay was won by Illinois after a hard struggle with Chicago.

The Illinois Interscholastic

THE Illinois Interscholastic occupies a unique place among the athletic meets of the west. The first meet was held in 1893 with a handful of contestants representing nine schools. Since then the meet has grown year by year, not only in point of entries but also in importance. There were entered in the last meet 390 athletes, representing high schools of Illinois and adjoining states. These men were the cream of the track stars of over eighty schools.

Interscholastic week is now the great spring attraction at Illinois. During this week occurs the annual May pole festival and May pole dance, the annual spring concerts of the University choral society, the annual Illinois high school oratorical contest, and the public school art exhibit. There are usually two baseball games, one on Friday and one on Saturday, between the Illinois nine and the teams of some other universities. On Friday afternoon the Illinois track team and the Illinois freshmen track team meet the track teams of some other school. The Interscholastic meet proper is run off on Saturday morning and always attracts a large crowd of out-of-town spectators. The winners in this meet are given gold, silver, and bronze medals for first, second, and third place, respectively; the winning relay team is awarded a silver loving cup, and the school capturing the meet, a championship banner.

An inspection of the records of the last meet will show that many good performances were made, in fact five of the best previous records were bettered and a world's interscholastic record for the discus was established. The best records of the sixteen meets held will compare most favorably with those of any other interscholastic meet, east or west.

Interscholastic week ends on Saturday night with the annual Interscholastic Circus and the annual Interscholastic Dance, both given under the direction of the Illinois Athletic Association, the former being held on Illinois Field and the latter in the Armory. The circus is put on entirely with student talent. Scores of animals, stunts, several troupes of acrobats, bands, and a ludicrous array of clowns furnish two hours of amusement for a crowd which has yearly filled every available bleacher.

While at the university every high school athlete is entertained by the students and townspeople, and is the guest of the Illinois Athletic Association at all the athletic events. The few days spent at this meet gives the prospective college man a glimpse of university life such as he can get at no other time. It is generally conceded that no better advertisement is put out at Illinois than that furnished by the attractions of Interscholastic Week. High school students look forward for months to becoming either a participant or a visitor at the meet and very few of them graduate without having witnessed during their high school course at least one Interscholastic.

ERNEST T. INGOLD, Interscholastic Manager.

ORATORY - DEBATE

The Year in Oratory and Debate

THE year 1908-09 has been an active one for oratory and debating interests. Besides the four debates with Minnesota, Nebraska, Indiana and Ohio, which have already been held, the University of Illinois will have representatives in three oratorical contests. The most important of these—that of the Northern Oratorical League—has been made available to us this year for the first time.

By a vote of the Board of Trustees, and through private gift, it was possible at the beginning of the year, to offer prizes for debating and oratory to the amount of three hundred and seventy-five dollars. These prizes, and the gold medals provided by Hon. William B. McKinley, were doubtless largely instrumental in bringing out a number of strong men. Besides this, successful mass meetings in October and December, where strong addresses were made by Deans Clark, Davenport, Harker, and others, served to strengthen enthusiasm and to encourage new men to come out.

Although Illinois is somewhat handicapped in her debates by the fact that her central location gives her four contests annually as against two on the part of her opponents, yet the presence of an unusually large number of experienced men, enabled her this year to make a considerably stronger showing than she did the season before. True, as last year, she won both home debates and lost both which were fought out on strange platforms, yet while in 1907-08 but four judges out of twelve voted in our favor, this year we succeeded in capturing seven. In other words, if the men who voted for Illinois had been as advantageously distributed as they were the year before, we should have had three victories, instead of two, to our credit.

Of the eleven debaters who represented us, Miller, Thompson, Davis and Fizzell were the only new men, and for the latter this held good in the December debates only, for he established a new record by winning a place for the spring debates as well. As for the "veterans," Griffith, Hershey, Ellison and Little, each appeared this year for the third time, while Bandy, Herbstman and McLaughlin were all of them members of last year's teams. At this writing, the oratorical contests have not yet been held, but it is confidently expected that Harrison, in the Equal Suffrage, and Miller, in the Northern Oratorical League, contests, will do both themselves and the University credit whether or not they succeed in winning first places.

Illinois has been honored by the election of two men to positions of importance in intercollegiate circles, Mr. P. K. Johnson being treasurer of the Northern Oratorical League and Mr. H. B. Hershey national president of Delta Sigma Rho, the honorary fraternity among college debaters and orators. The national convention of the latter organization will be held here in May.

Much credit for our success this year in oratory and debating is due to Mr. E. M. Halliday. His untiring efforts in coaching the debating teams have brought our debaters to a position where they are feared by all opponents, an achievement which reflects much credit on Mr. Halliday's excellent work.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

THE establishment of a Graduate School at the University of Illinois represents a distinct advance in the work of the institution and marks an epoch in the history of government aid to higher education. On the one hand it is the final step which places the University of Illinois among the foremost universities of the country; on the other hand, it is noteworthy as committing a democratic commonwealth definitely to the promotion of advanced scholarship and research in pure science and cultural subjects as well as in technical.

For a number of years graduate instruction has been given in the various departments and a Graduate School has been in existence since 1892, but it was not until 1906 that it was recognized as a distinct department. In that year the school was reorganized, a Graduate Faculty created, and Professor Kinley, then Dean of the College of Literature and Arts, was made Dean. A further advance was made when the Legislature at the session of 1906-07, for the first time, made a specific appropriation of $50,000 a year for graduate study. In the succeeding two years the enrollment of resident graduate students has more than doubled and now amounts to considerably over two hundred. Nor has the growth been merely a matter of numbers. Every effort has been made to establish standards of research and instruction equal, if not superior, to those of any other institution in America or Europe. The physical equipment in the form of libraries, laboratories and experiment stations has been steadily improved; a high class of students has been encouraged to attend by a liberal grant of scholarships and fellowships; most important of all, men of ability, reputation and ripe scholarship have been added to the faculty along every line. The fact that Illinois was recently admitted to the Association of American Universities testifies to the success of the effort.

The work of the Graduate School covers a broad field. Advanced instruction is given in eighteen different departments, representing all the schools and colleges except those of Law and Library Science. In addition, research of a practical kind is carried on in the various experiment stations and surveys. In general, the work is planned for students of ability who are working for the Doctor's degree, but opportunities are also offered to the high school or college teacher who desires to broaden himself by a year's advanced study and to those interested in government or business activities who may wish advanced training in their specialty.

The ideals of the Graduate School can be expressed in no better words than those of President Roosevelt in a recent address before the alumni of Harvard College: "The ideal for the Graduate School and for those undergraduates who are to go into it must be the ideal of high scholarly production, which is to be distinguished in the sharpest fashion from the mere transmittal of ready-made knowledge without adding to it."

The Graduate Club is the official organization of the students and faculty of the Graduate School. Its object is twofold: social and educational. Advanced study and research limits the student to the narrow field in which he is working; he does not have an opportunity to meet people interested in other lines of investigation, and the great value of such an organization as the Graduate Club comes in bringing together the graduate students and graduate faculty in all departments of the University to meet each other in a social way or listen to a lecture of general interest.

To meet these needs the Graduate Club was organized in the year 1903-04 to "facilitate acquaintance among graduate students and members of the faculty engaged in graduate instruction." Its influence has kept pace with the development of the Graduate School and it is now recognized as an important factor in the life of the graduate student body.

The year 1908-1909 has been a successful period in the history of the club. The first meeting and election of officers was held soon after the opening of the year, on September 30, and the officers were able to push the work with enthusiasm from the first. The most important single feature of the club has been the meetings. On November 3, a smoker was given for the men, and on November 12, a tea for the women. A few weeks later a reception was given in honor of Professor Coulter, of the University of Chicago, and on December 12, Professor Burnham, of Cincinnati, spoke on the "Civilizing Role of France and Italy previous to the Invention of Printing." On January 12, Graham Taylor, of the Chicago Commons, talked informally for the club on the subject of the "Russell Sage Foundation," with which he is connected. On January 12, Professor Bose, of India, spoke in a similar way of graduate work in India, and on the 19th of February, Professor Penniman, Dean of the Colleges of the University of Pennsylvania, lectured on "Humanities in the American Colleges." Following this, Dean Kollock gave a reception in the Woman's Building to the faculty and students of the Graduate School.

In addition to lectures and meetings, the club has done much to establish an esprit des corps among the graduate students; to promote the interests of the Graduate School by interesting prospective students in its work; and in other ways to promote acquaintance among faculty and students.

The University of Illinois Union is an organization the formation of which has for a long time l in the contemplation of President James and others who are in charge of, and who are interested in, future development of the University.

At the annual Junior Smoker held last year, Dean Clark and Professor Breckenridge suggested advisability of having a building somewhere on the campus where students, faculty, and alumni might together," so that they might learn more of one another's ideas and ideals, and to develop the true s of Illinois loyalty.

A motion was put by J. C. Herbstman that the president of the class appoint a committee to inve gate the feasibility of such a plan, and if conditions were favorable, to proceed with the project. Presi Ashley appointed as members of the committee: C. E. Hutchin, R. N. Erskine, Lion Gardiner, K. H. Tal and R. A. Sparks.

In consultation with various members of the Council of Administration, so much encouragement received that steps were at once taken by the committee to devise plans for the organization of an Illi Union.

During the summer vacation Chairman Hutchin communicated with other universities where sim organizations had been formed, and much valuable information for the guidance of the committee was t obtained.

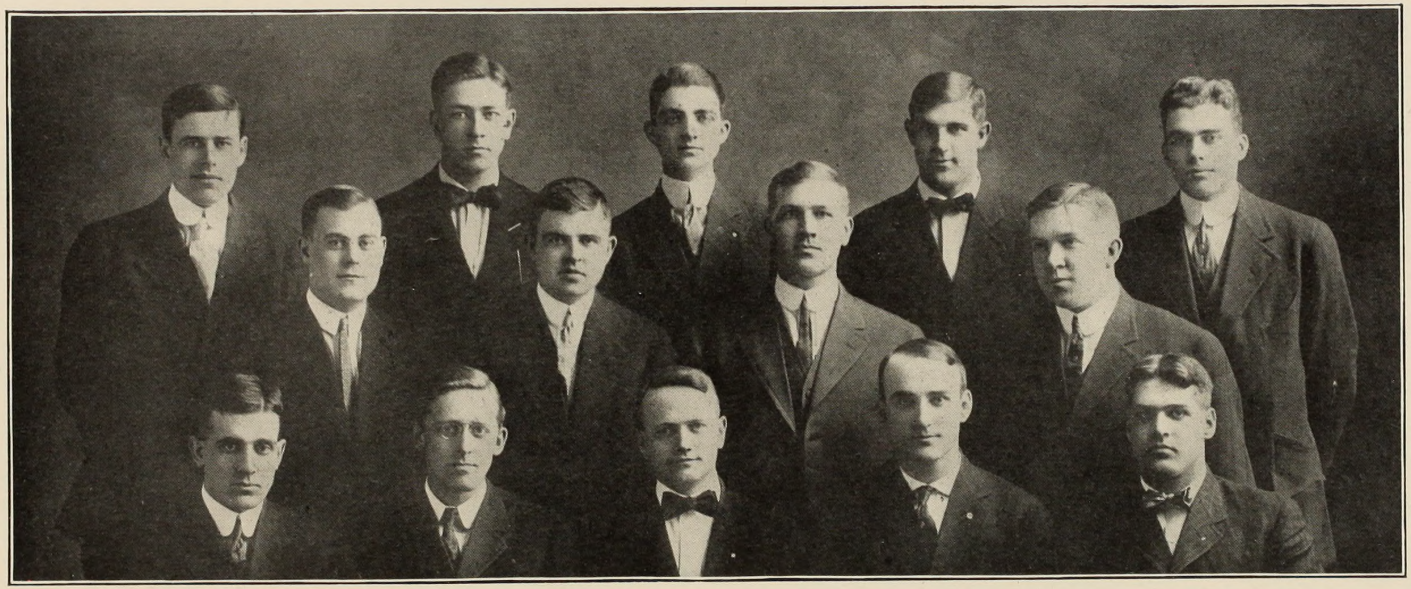

Upon the reopening of school, the committee at once began their work looking toward the perma organization of the Union. Dean Greene, Dean Clark, and Dean Goss, as a committee representing the U versity Council of Administration, co-operated with the committee of the Senior class, and a constitu and a set of by-laws were drawn up for the government of the organization. At a mass meeting hel the Auditorium, March 3, the University of Illinois Union was formally launched, and the constitution adopted.

The first election of officers was held March 17. There were 644 votes cast. Immediately after election, steps were taken to increase the membership and to enlist the support of every student in the U versity. As the result of a Tag Day held on March 26, the membership was raised to 1,500.

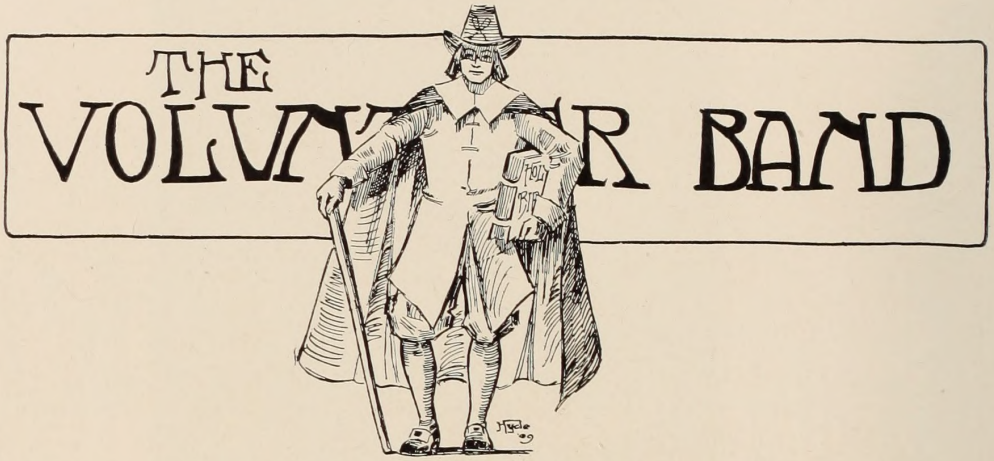

The purpose of the Illinois Union is to promote Illinois spirit by all possible means, and especially the erection and maintenance of a club house.

The Students' Council, though a part of the Union movement, is really separate and distinct from Union itself. The Council is composed of the regular officers of the Union and of seven members of Junior class. The purpose of its organization is the control of student affairs. Exactly what powers be vested in the Student Council will depend largely upon the wisdom and judgment its members mani in the discharge of duties given them to perform by the University Council.

At present the efforts of the Union are directed toward the raising of a fund for building purpo President James, Dean Clark, and Dean Greene have given an impetus to this movement and have sh their interest in the Union by making contributions before the solicitation for funds has begun. Stude alumni, and friends of the University will be solicited for funds. Those in charge ask the support, the fi cial aid, and the hearty co-operation of every person who may be in any way interested in the establishm of the University of Illinois Union.

ROOTS

"Johnny on the Spot"

Written for the "Black Cat" by Our Eminent Contemporary, "Shorty" Railsback

Young Johnny Wise, said Slow-foot Bill,
As he puffed his cigaret,
He was the candy-kid all right—
Never seen his equal yet.

You see, John was an actor, quite
The noise, the people said;
Never fergot his old-time pals,
Fer it didn't swell his head.

One time us boys went to New York
To see our John perform;
We looked him up—he seemed blamed glad,
His hand-shake was durn warm.

"SHORTY"

That night the show was plumb full up,
It made an awful hit;
Us old pals of the leadin' man,
Was up's fur's we could git.

The curtain rose—and there b'gosh,
There was Johnny on the spot;
The bunch of us on the front row
Clapped 'til our hands got hot.

But what seemed aw'fly queer to us,
They had John in a jail;
His clothes were striped, his hair was clipped,
His face was mighty pale.

I guess our John was safe and sound,
But gosh; it galled us all,
To see the kid up there alone,
Hitched to a chain an' ball.

It seemed that John had killed a man,
And finally got caught;
At dawn of morn, the program read,
Our John was to be shot.

I wondered why John didn't try
To break out of his shed,
Because it seemed the bloomin' guard
Was sleepin' overhead.

Just then, as I was thinkin' this,
A clock begun to strike;
John, who was sleepin' awful still,
Rose, kinda quiet like.

He crept to one side of his cell,
And worked an awful while;
And fin'ly from behind a stone
He pulled a rusty file.

He listened just a moment—then
He filed away the chain;
I looked to see the guard awake,
The noise was awful plain.

It didn't take John very long
To file away the bars;
He got outside at last and stood
Beneath the moon and stars.

Our Johnnie didn't lose no time
In shakin' off the sod;
He started out a takin' steps
That looked about a rod.

Just as he went to jump across
A sort of precipice,
The guard awoke and pulled his gun,—
We saw he couldn't miss.

The guard took awful steady aim,
Pulled trigger, but it snapped;
He stood there all excited like,
He just stood there and gapped.

It seems that Johnnie had to die,
It seemed it was so writ;
The poor guard stood there all fussed like,—
He looked like he'd been hit.

But as I told you guys before,
Young Johnnie was no poke;
He knew it was him for the grave,
Er the play would be a joke.

The kid stood there a moment, then
Without crackin' a smile
He toppled over, as he yelled,—
"My God! I've swallered the file!"

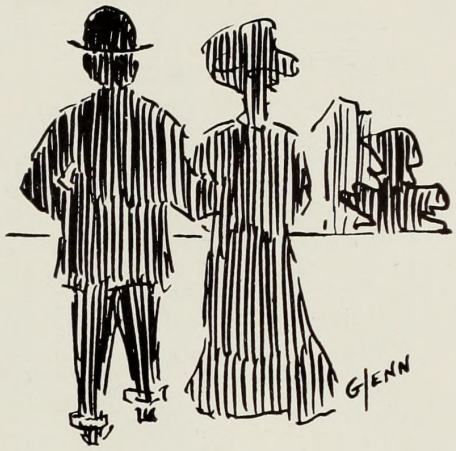

The Reason

A lizard crawled up a wall;
Crawled up it once,
Crawled up it twice,
And crawled away.

A bee flew on a flower;
Flew on it once,
Flew on it twice,
And flew away.

A man, he kissed a maid;
He kissed her once,
He kissed her twice,
And walked away.

The wall was not sunny,
The flower had no honey,
The girl had no money.

If on my theme I rightly think,
There are five reasons why men drink;
Good wine, a friend, because I'm dry,
Or lest I may be by and by,
Or any other reason why.

Here's to the love that lies in a woman's eyes,—and lies and lies.

CLIPPINGS

As to Fashion

"How many laps to the mile?"
"What; the new track?"
"Naw; that coyeds hat."

How much chance has a poor man got? If he's just tall enough to match her hat, he gets a hair cut; if he's still taller, he acquires a shave; and if he is a head over her, he gets guillotined. What's the use?

Supernaculum

When the lights are fled,
And the moon's blood-red,
And dangles about right over your head;
When the last jest is said,
And good folks are abed,
And you feel like a rag and wish you were dead;
And cry out for the day,
And leer at the darkness in dizzy dismay;
When you feel you could lay
Yourself down and stay
Till Kingdom-come, whenever it may,
You're drunk and you know it,
And what's worse, you show it,
You're no longer on earth, but far, far below it.

"I am getting into fine shape," said the chorus girl, dressing for the performance.

Duties

There lived a gallant cavalier,
In all the land was not his peer;
And ever did he, without fear,
His knightly dutv.

But when, full oft, upon the stroke
Of two, his son and heir awoke,
He walked the floor—it was no joke,
His nightly duty.

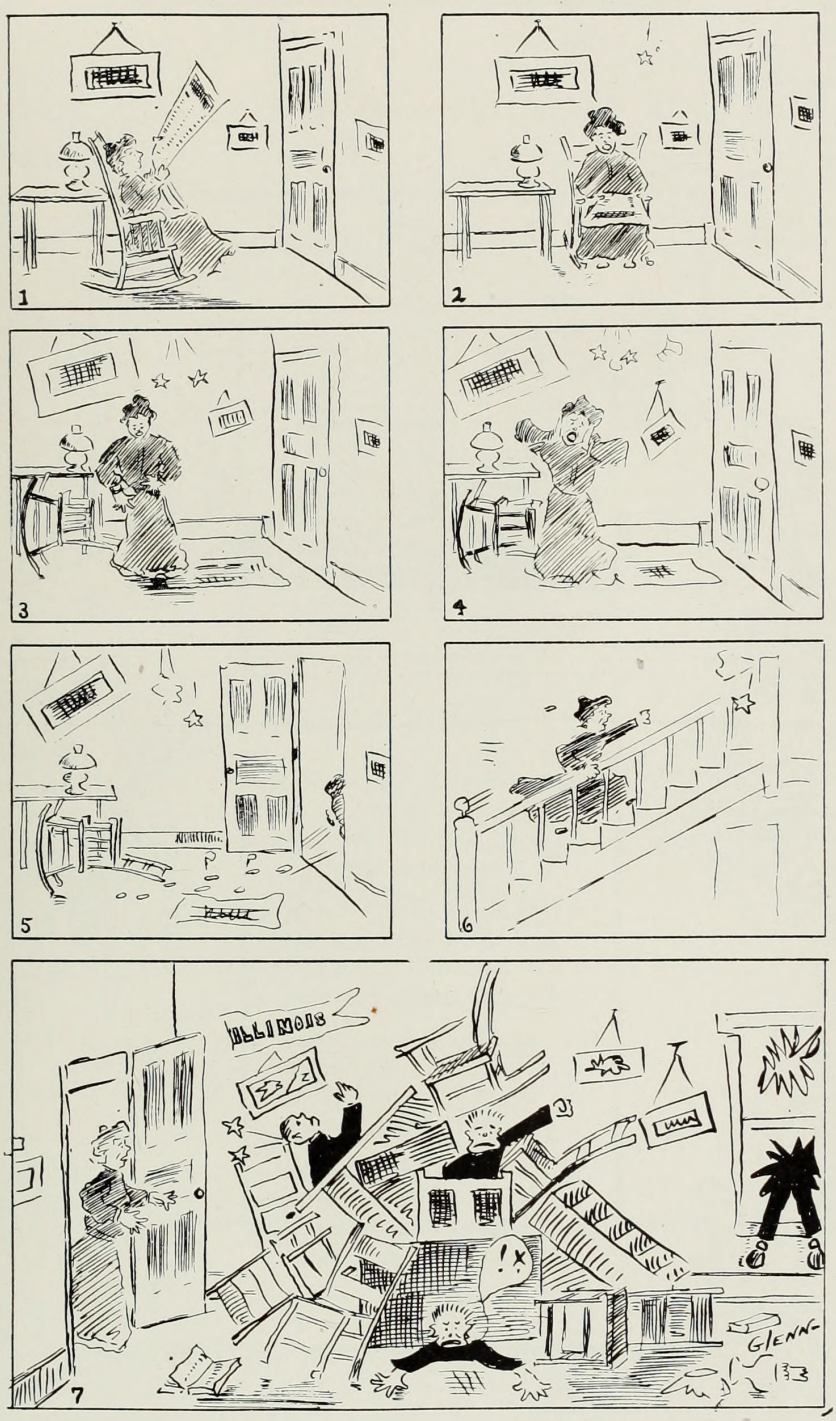

No Problem

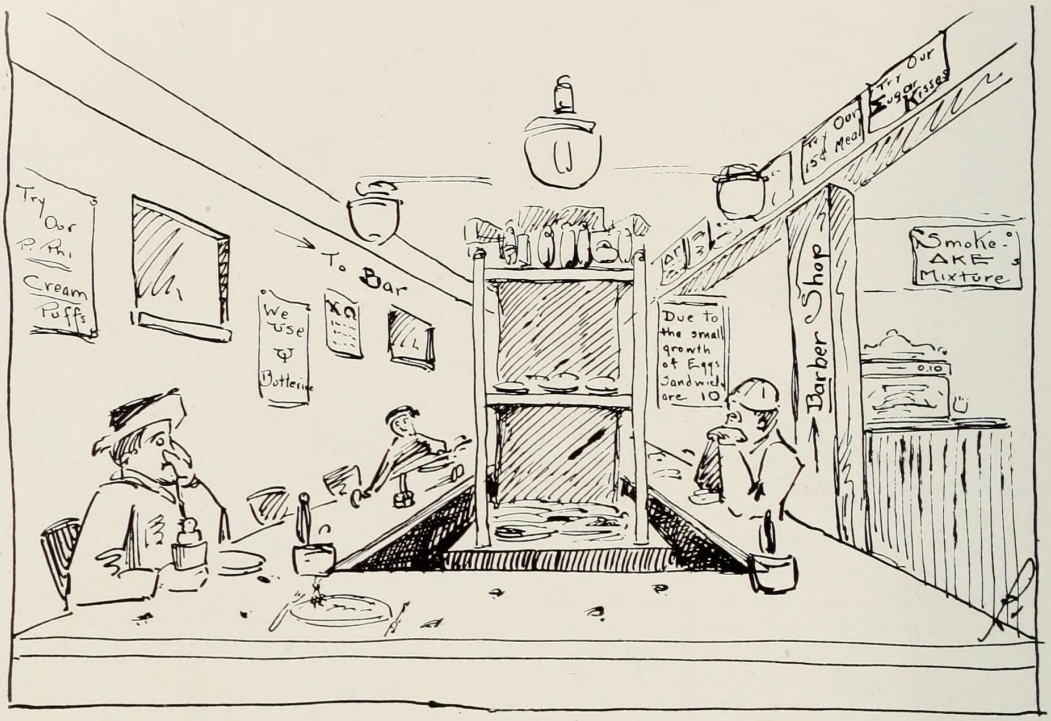

"Say, Bill," said Jack, filling his pipe with a disturbed expression on his face. "Look here: I went to a dance last week, and I met that Miss Cunninge that I'm crazy about, an' I got a couple of dances and the supper with her, an' in the first dance I accidently planted my foot on top of hers, an' she hobbled to a chair and wilted, an' I apologized, and she said it didn't matter at all, and that she would rather sit it out, because that's what she came to dances for, anyhow; and then after our second dance, I happened to be standing on the train of her gown when she walked off with her other partner, and when I heard it begin to tear I was too paralyzed to move, and let 'er rip, and when she came back to gather it up, I apologized the best I knew how, and she said it was perfectly all right, and a small affair, anyhow, that it was her own fault because she hadn't taken it up, only, she had thought it might escape my feet, which was very foolish of her: and finally, while we were eating supper, I inadvertently placed her cup of coffee in her lap, upside down, and then I certainly did apologize, and she said not to mind in the least, that the brown was an ideal combination with the pink, in fact, such an extraordinary one that if I would go out in the kitchen and get her an apron to wear to the dressing-room, she wouldn't spring it on the others at that time, and I did it. But say, now—what would you do if you were in my place?"

"Vacate it," said Bill.

"That Prof. gave me D—. What did he give you?"

"He gave me H—."

GLENN-
'33

Come near me, gentle cockroach,
Come near, sweet bird of prey;
Cast loose your ears and list awhile
To what I have to say.

Pray come and sit thee by my side,
And share my humble meal;
Be calm and still—be not afraid,
I'll with thee gently deal.

Thou crawlest o'er my sleepy face
At midnight's dreary hour.
Thou fallest in my tea and milk;
At sight of thee I cower.

I would I were as free as thee,
I fain would have thy wings,
That I might soar to realms above,
Of which the poet sings.

THE KISS MUST GO

The Kiss and the Saloon Alike Warred Upon

Get an Umbrella or Hide Out

"The kiss is an intoxicant, and, like the saloon, must go." So saith the Rev. Henry W. Ireland, of Mount Gilead, Ohio, in the course of a revolutionary hortatorium to his gaping congregation.

The reverend gentleman, we opine, is both right and wrong—right when he maintains that the kiss is an intoxicant, but wrong when he insists that it must go. As every experienced virtuoso is well aware, the effect of a willing and sufficiently prolonged kiss is not only intoxicating, but also, in the end, actually toxic. That is to say, it produces a dispersal of the faculties and a condition of ethical syncope more suggestive to acute toxema or acute delirium than to simple vinousness. A drunken man, no matter how confused his locomotion, is always able to distinguish between himself and the rest of creation; but a man being kissed, or kissing,—provided, of course, he has first achieved a perfect collocation of the time, the place, and the girl—is, to all intents and purposes, a disembodied spirit, without weight, shape, religious principles, political convictions, or separate identity. His feet, true enough, may rest upon Brussels carpet, but all the while his soul is describing swift paraboloids in the trackless void beyond Orion.

It is the fashion of the more bilious moralists to put kissing among the gross pleasures, with eating, yodeling, snoring, and the use of tobacco; but, as a matter of fact, it is not a corporeal delight at all. Its sole physical accompaniment, indeed, is a sense of suffocation,—and this, as all will agree, is scarcely agreeable. No; the insidious charm of the pastime must be sought in its psychic effects—in its marvelous and delightful interference with the normal processes of ratiocination. A man kissed is a man transfigured and transmogrified. Let him be the worst of misanthropes before the sweet impingement of nose upon nose, and he may yet emerge from the turmoil a philanthropist. One kiss, properly stage managed, is enough to transform a Democrat into a Republican, a pirate into a poet, a politician into a philosopher, or vice versa. One small kiss, indeed, is sufficient to turn a proud, heaven-tipping bachelor into a servile married man—the most stupendous, antipodal, and lamentable transformation possible, at this writing, in a mere human being.

Is it desirable, then, that the institution, or pastime, of kissing be abolished by statute? Our answer to the question is a harsh and vociferous no. Going further, we maintain not only that such a law would make the world a howling wilderness, but also that it is today and ever must be a transcendental phantasm, an academic preposterosity, an inconceivable and unimaginable fiction of the fourth dimension.—Baltimore Sun.

AURORA BOYS ARE HEROES

SAVE UNIVERSITY HALL

Main Hall at Champaign Damaged By Fire Last Night—Aid Firemen

Two Aurora boys led the volunteer fire fighters who saved University hall from destruction at the University of Illinois at Urbana last night, Edward Schmidt and Thomas Boger, of this city, arriving first on the scene and giving the alarm.

Fire broke out in the main hall of the state university, and did much damage. The entire third and fourth floors were burned, while the lower floors are badly water soaked. Fire was caused by cross wires.

Heroic work done by the students, who were led by Edward Schmidt and Thomas Boger. It was their work that saved the entire building from destruction. Schmidt and Boger gave the alarm and later rushed into the building and saved many valuable documents.

Many of the students were only half dressed, but they worked all night clearing away the rubbish, and watching for further outbreaks. No one was injured, and all valuables were saved.

The fire broke out at 10:30 o'clock. Most of the student body was attending the local theaters and when the alarm was given, a small riot ensued in the rush for the exits. The streets were crowded with running, shouting boys and girls, and every one was making for the university.

The night watchman was going his rounds when on the top floor of the hall a slight blaze was discovered. Water was thrown onto it and then a fire extinguished was brought into play, but the flames had gained a good headway and the alarm was turned in. Ropes were soon strung and the anxious students were held in check by volunteer policemen.

Boger and Schmidt were the first two men to carry a lead of hose into the building, and as they did, a hearty cheer rose up from 2,000 spectators. The flames continued for over an hour and the entire building will be put out of service either by fire or water.

At one o'colck the flames were under control and the crowds began slowly taking their way home.

WHAM WINS FOR ILLINOIS

Well Known Cartter Lad Makes Good on Gridiron

The football team of the Illinois University at Urbana met and defeated the Purdue (Ind.) team last Saturday, and in speaking of the game the Chicago Record-Herald says:

"Fred Wham, the veteran Illinois tackle and prospective choice for an All Western position, was acclaimed today by local critics as the greatest orange and blue tackle since the days of Lundgren and Stahl. Young Wham is well known in this city and adjoining community. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wham or Cartter, who are prominently known and highly esteemed for their excellent traits. Fred is a law student in the State University and is one of those splendid, manly fellows whom it is a real pleasure to know. During this recent vacation season he continued his studies in the office of Judge Chas H. Holt, and he won a large circle of friends here. Friends rejoice at his success on the gridiron, and trust that he may carry the grand old orange and blue to even greater victories."

OBJECTS TO BEING A HERO

EDWARD K. SCHMIDT DENIES

Declares He Had No Part in Saving of University of Illinois Building

Edward K. Schmidt, of this city, a Freshman at the University of Illinois, objects seriously to being a hero. The editor of The Beacon received the following telegram, too late for publication in yesterdav's issue:

"Your article of October 10 was a fake. Please repute same. I deny all." Signed, Edward K. Schmidt.

The Beacon was not sure that the message was properly transmitted. Probably Edward in the height of his trouble mistook "repute" for "repudiate."

The article referred to concerned a fire at the university last Friday night in which Schmidt and Henry Boger were pictured as heroes. The Bea- received a telegram signed by Boger, Saturday morning, telling of the fire, and a few hours later had two letters from him. Apparently they were in his handwriting and, as Boger has been sending news to The Beacon for a year, it took the story for the truth.

Schmidt has written to Aurora relatives that the story was a joke. It may be the scheme of some lordly Sophomores to make life miserable for a poor Freshman. In that case, we hasten to comply with Mr. Schmidt's request and for him deny it all. We were a Freshman once ourself.

The Old, Old Story

Once upon a Time there lived in a certain College Town not so very far away, a beautiful Girl with Golden Tresses and Deep Blue Eyes and a continual Flow of Entrancing Conversation. And it came to Pass that many Admirers gathered around Her to drink in the light of Her Eyes and partake of Her Charms. But these Admirers were so numerous that no one could tell who was Ahead. Freshmen and Seniors, Juniors and P. G.'s were all on equal Footing in Her Eyes. Each vied with the Other in showing Her Attention. When She went to and from Class, She was followed by a line of Devotees like Elsie Janis and Dean Kolloch. In her train were Authors and Doctors and a Lawyer, a Banker, a Millionaire, and four Men who owned Machines.

On Sunday afternoon when all these Admirers gathered in one Small Parlor, it was not always Pleasant, for there was Rivalry among them. In truth, there was but one Youth who was at Peace with Everyone. He was a young Minister who sometimes called to consult Her about the best time for holding the Bazaar, or how much he should charge for fancy Sunbonnets. Sometimes he called to see Her about Charity Work, for she was interested in Everything.

Finally Commencement Time came, and she was the Belle of the Campus. The whole College profited by Her presence. Those who wished to advance in Her estimation supported It. The millionaire donated a new Armory; the Banker gave a Zoological collection to the Museum; the Lawyer addressed the graduating class. And the others who could do none of these Things arranged a great Athletic Day in Her honor. All day they Fought and Ran and Jumped, that each might lay some laurel at Her Feet.

At last the day ended, and Her Admirers, Tired and Exhausted, went to receive Her Words of Commendation. But Alas, where had She gone? No one had seen Her since early morning. Finally, Her little brother was questioned, and it was discovered that She was in Yonder Grove a Mile away reading to the Preacher, who had the Headache. They rushed to Her, but 'twas too late. They were already engaged.

This simple tale teaches the Old, Old Story, that Girls haven't ANY sense.

—Boys, Registration Day.

Oh, yes, girls Θ Δ X is the strongest national frat there is.
You know!—R. C. Miller.

THE PRIMER

A is for Alpha and Alpha again,
We haven't heard from them since heaven knows when.

B is for Baum, who leads in football,
He says that he'll clean up Chicago next fall.

C is for Clubs—may the fountain go dry,
From which they do come like the brood of a fly.

D is for Drennan, a trifle too small,
For the place that he holds in the athletic hall.

E is for each one who's given no space
In the rest of the book. This is his place.

F is for Flanders, a very nice chap,
Who always appears on the verge of a nap.

G is for grafters. The Juniors, I fear
Have a goodly supply on their hands for this year.

H is for Hopkins, who runs the half mile,
We wish he would pass a course once in a while.

I is for Ingold. It's almost a sin,
To hope, when he sees this, for once he will grin.

J is for Johnson, P. K., or E. E.,
Or J. M., or E. J., or C. S., or E. B.

K is for Kelly, who's freckled and red,
The Lord only knows what he's got in his head.

L is for Lemons. We own with a tear,
That they number so many, we can't want 'em here.

M 's for a laddies whose last name's McKee,
Oh, hear the girls call softly to him, "Moll-ee!"

N–O said Tommy, and wide, wide agley
Went the plans of the mice who'd send Tommy away.

P is for Perkins, a small, white-faced chap,
Who could use a nice nurse and a bottle, mayhap.

Q is for Quinton, of prep, Quinn, R. G. and A.,
They're Freshmen, and that's really all we can say.

R is for Railsback, a runner of style,
He tries out on three laps and calls it a mile.

S is for Schultzke, who goes a third time
To "Goody's" grad. banquet; his nerve is sublime.

T is for Trotter, in nice clothes arrayed,
Our Babe is a popular child, we're afraid.

U is for you, a very poor text,
But you'll do to bridge over to V, which comes next.

V is for Van Hook, in poor health this spring,
He weighs but two-thirty-five, poor little thing.

W is for Warnock. There's no more to say,
For his name is the biggest and best part of Ray.

X is the hour when we all have to leave.
This was said in '07, but we're just as sore about it now as we were then.

Y is for Yapp, W. W., Ag. 2.
As a filler for Y, he will just have to do.

Z is for Zeitlin, instructor in Rhet.,
As a lemon for Freshmen, he is a safe bet.

There is a young Pi Phi named Ede,
Who goes at a terrible speed,
She pulled Jackie Horner
From out of his corner,
Look out for yourself, little Ede.

Well, why shouldn't we have our pictures taken in dress suits? We're the sportiest bunch in town.—Σ N.

Consider the ways of the little green cucumber, which never does its best fighting till after it's down.

A Maritime Ditty

A 'ungry hostrich went to sea
To get a hapetite.
"My stomach's gone to 'ell," said he,
"But this will make it right."

'E never feared the fierce typhoon,
But on the deck so 'ot,
They fed 'im with a silver spoon,
On number ten bird shot.

The fourth day out there came a squall,
Which sent us all to bed.
But 'e, 'e couldn't move at all,
And simply 'eaved the lead.

A Ballad to the Weather Man*

(With apologies to the shade of Oliver Wendell Holmes, and to the shadow of the "true ballad" spirit.)

He was a hectic Sophomore, unused to college ways,
For in his Freshman year his mind was clouded in a haze.
She was a dainty first-year girl, a Co-ed slight and fair,
She lived across the street from him—she fluttered down the stair.

It was the hectic Sophomore that saw the Co-ed sweet,
That azure Autumn afternoon, betake her down the street.
Upon her modest maiden brow a Cupid's curl did reel,
And, as she turned, a Psyche knot to him made mute appeal.

Straightway his slide-rule he did seize and with a measured pace
He boldly strode across the street to walk beside Her Grace.
Oh, there were glances copious as Equinoctial drops,
Love's lightning flashed from eye to eye—his heart forsook the shops.

"Oh, maid with Berenice's locks, what time do you return?"
"At four P. M.—and you?" she said. (How could her eyes but yearn?)
Despite the Colonel's thundering, despite his flashing tongue,
"At four o'clock, come earthquake shock, we'll meet." Her hand he wrung.

* * * * *

"What darkness hovers o'er the earth," the timid maiden cries,
"It seems the sable robe of Night is sweeping o'er the skies.'
"O, have no fear while I am here," he answers with a shout,
"When in I ran, the weather man had nary-a signal out."

"Ah, me! what vivid lights I see;; the Heavens are on fire!"
"Tis only from the trolley line—there's no flag on the spire."
"The great artillery of Jove breaks on my trembling ear!"
"Don't fuss—the south cars rumble thus. No flag is out. 'Tis clear."

So boldly out of Uni Hall he bore the shrinking maid.
"Prognosticate? Our flags rule Fate! So be thou not dismayed,
"Just see how we thru science have dominion o'er the gale."
He turned to point,—his finger joint grew stiff, his face grew pale.

The maiden gazed,—she was amazed to see her hero pause,
Her glance was shifted to the pole; she gasped, "Oh, woeful cause!"
Two blood-red flags with centers black as plumes upon a hearse,
Were slowly creeping up the staff;—he breathed a muttered curse.

Alas for them! The lightning's flash consumed him on the spot.
A cloud-burst melted her who met the fate of Mrs. Lot.
Tradition keeps a monument for them this side the Styx;
Behold it in the morning breeze—the flags are up at six.

* There is much complaint among the students concerning the folly of putting up weather signals after everyone has started to school. A timely warning would enable us to don rain-coats and galoshes.

CORNWELL IS APPOINTED LIEUTENANT OF CADETS

Honor Understood To Be Conferred by Faculty of the University

Earl Cornwell, son of Supervisor and Mrs. J. E. Cornwell, living in the neighborhood of Paris, Ill., has been appointed first lieutenant of Company E, of the Cadets of the University of Illinois. The appointment came as a compelte surprise to Mr. Cornwell, who has just entered upon his third year at the university. There are about 1,000 cadets at the university.

The selection of Mr. Cornwell was no doubt due to the fact that he ranked fourth in the Hazelton contest the first year he attended the university. It is understood that the appointment was made by the faculty.

Lieutenant: "Squad, halt!"
Freshie Canwood: "I ain't Squad. I'm Canwood from Palestine."

EDGAR COUNTY STUDENTS AT UNIVERSITY

WALTER WORSHAM IS HONORED WITH PROMOTION

Two Edgar County Boys Have Withdrawn From University—Interesting Letter

Two of Edgar county's best students have withdrawn from the university lately. Mr. Wilbur Hickman, who was in the department of law and president of the student Bryan Campaign Club, is among the number. He has taken up the practice of his profession and has a rapidly growing business.

Mr. Robert Cornwell, son of Supervisor Cornwell, withdrew after attending one semester. He expects to return next fall.

Walter B. Worsham has been reported corporal in the signal corps of the University regiment. To attain such a position one must have attained more than an average standing in his work. This speaks well for Mr. Worsham, who is a student in electrical engineering.

Mr. Paul B. Lauher, brother of Attorney Lauher, assisted in a play "The Palace of Truth," given by one of the literary societies. Mr. Lauher is working his way through the university activities.

Mr. Carlyle Pemberton, son of Senator Pemberton, of Oakland a junior in mechanical engineering, is out for pitcher in the Varsity baseball team Mr. Pemberton pitched for the Sophomore team last year and is promising material.

Walter (Jocko) Jones, of Redmon, won second in the pole vault in the indoor track meet between the University of Chicago and University of Illinois by vaulting 11 feet and 9 inches.

The bulletin announcing the summer session has just been published. It is understood that several Edgar county students are planning to remain and take extra work. This is the time when teachers from all over the state gather for work which their duties the other nine months of the year does not permit their attention.

For though I speak with the tongues of String McKelvey and Frank Scott, and have not Alta, I am becoming as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of a winner with femininity and have all manner of standing with the goodly Thetas and the daughters of the house of Pi Phi; and in the exhuberance of my strength I have power to remove the rock of Gibraltar, and have not Alta, I am nothing. Alta never faileth; but whether there be Sigs, they shall fail; whether there be Phi Delts, they shall cease; whether there be Delts, they shall vanish away. Even as the chaff is driven before the wind, so shall they fade away when my shadow falleth within the borders of West Park street. And now abideth offices, popularity, Alta; these three, but the greatest of these is Alta. Selah!

A kiss is a peculiar proposition. Of no use to one, yet absolute bliss to two. The small boy gets it for nothing, the young man has to steal it, the old man has to buy it. The baby's right, the lover's privilege, the hypocrite's mask. To a young girl, faith; to a married woman, hope; and to an old maid, CHARITY.

A Letter to Satan

His Satanic Majesty was reading the "Daily Socialist," when a messenger-imp entered with an asbestos telegram. "A report from Phosphorus," cried Satan, and tore it open, discovering the following message:

Urbana, Ill., October 19, 1908.

Dear Old Harry:

Arrived at the University of Illinois, as per your orders. Could make many friends here, who might like to visit us later, but am devoting myself entirely to looking up novelties for your popular resort.

Luckily, I have found what I think will suit you perfectly. They have a method of torture here, known as the "Military Drill." Newcomers are dressed up in tight-fitting suits, with saw-edged collars and white gloves, made to whirl around on one heel, march back and forth, stand absolutely still and straight for indefinite periods, and then given fifteen demerits and a week's vacation. Then the torture is resumed, with new variations.

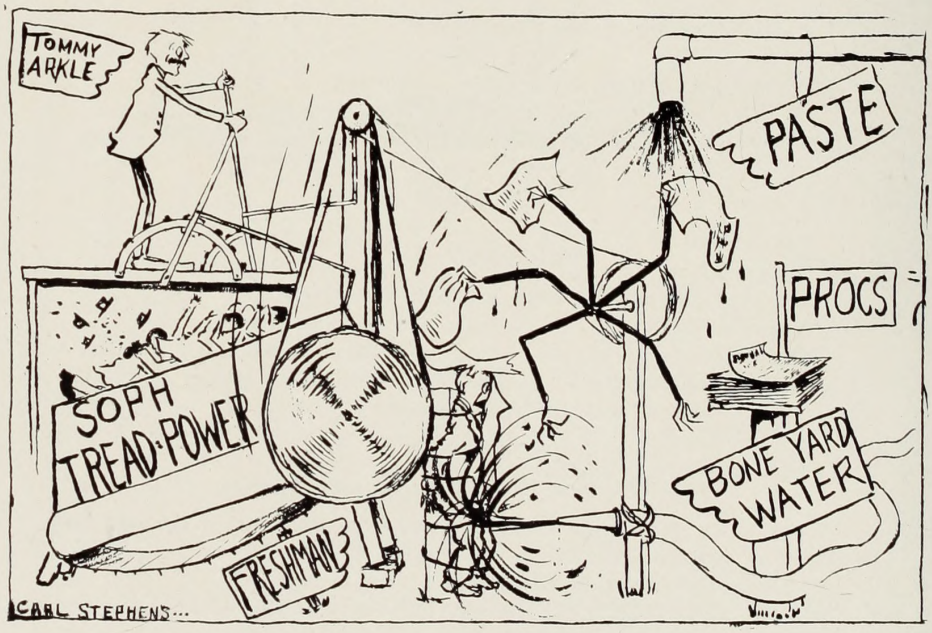

Now, my suggestion is to dress up our amateurs in steel uniforms, cactus-leaf collars and other suitable articles of dress, drill them for a century or two, give them a year's rest, and then repeat. I think that will solve the question of what to do with the first and second millennium classes.

There are other methods here which we could use to advantage, and I will describe them later.

Yours on the alert,

PHOSPHORUS, Ass't Mgr. Hades.

"Capital," chuckled Satan, and he sent in the order for uniforms to his head tailor.

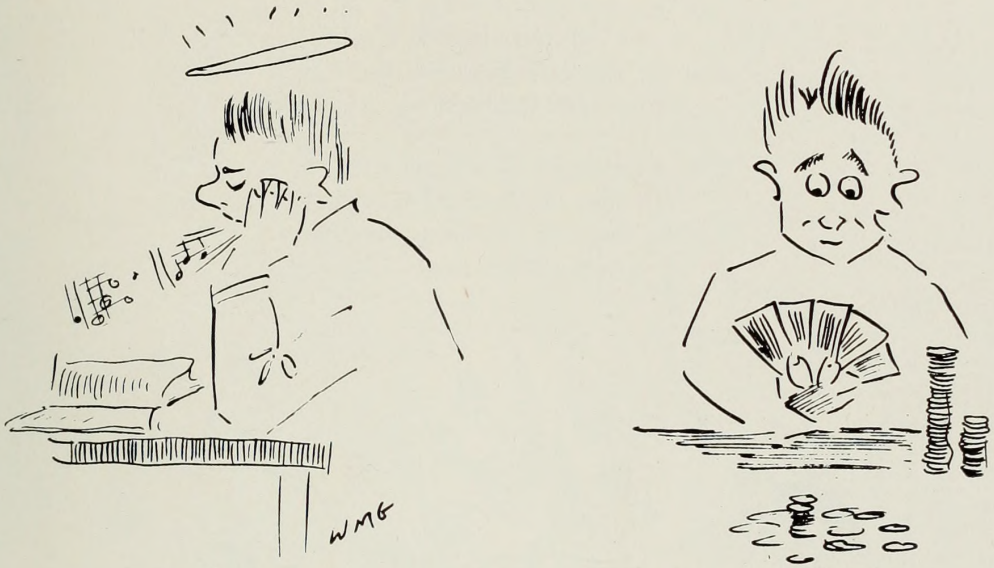

Have You a Little Club in Your House?

We mean a Technical or Fraternal Club, of course.

All sorts organized on short notice.

Oh, well for his class-mates who help,
(Only they never will get to heaven.")

And the water is dark and cold,
As we roll in the bone yard mud;
And the poles are slick and slim,
As we climb, coming down with a thud.

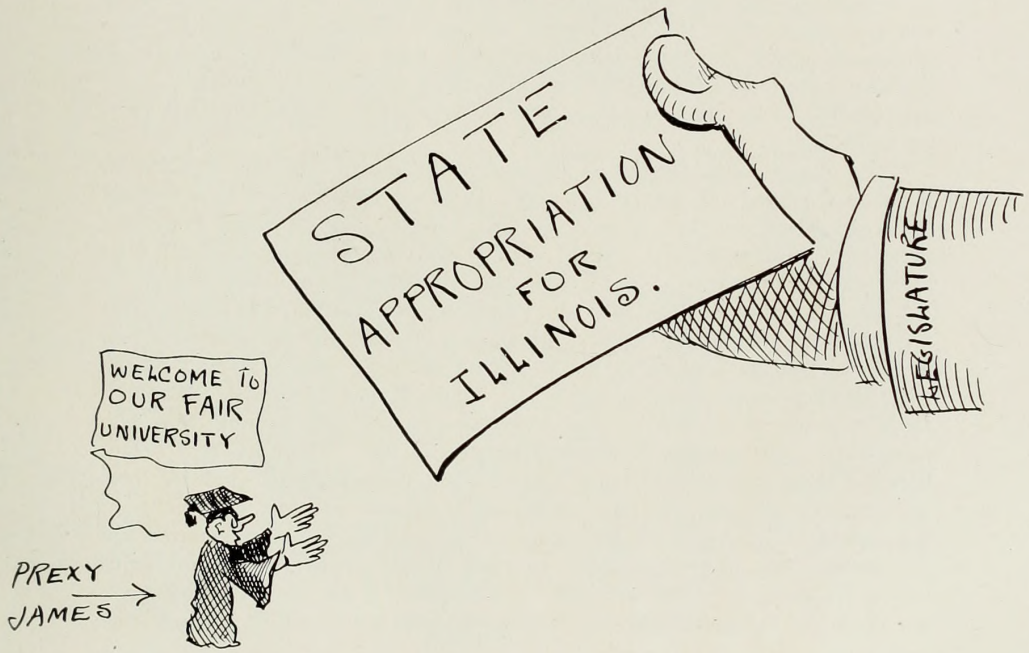

Hop, hop, hop,
Nine rahs for the Sophomore class.
But the memories of those paddles broad,
I'm afraid will never pass.

Organizations at the University of Illinois

There are a great many different college societies here at Illinois, from the Hospital Association to the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Pony Riders, and it is a pretty slow undergraduate that cannot identify himself with at least a few. Their members are known by different signs that vary from the ministerial aspect of the Y. M. C. A., affiliate to the four-inch trouser cuff of the Pi Theta Beta. Most organizations, however, differentiate their adherents from the rabble by some sort of badge worn loyally over the heart, and the average student when he reaches the dignity of seniority has accumulated enough of these pins to make him look, when fully attired, like either John L. Sullivan having his picture taken with all his decorations aboard, or the Gaikwan of Baroda on full dress parade. Some of our most prominent students, not having hit on the expedient of wearing a different pin each day, with perhaps two on Sunday, and not being blessed by Nature with the prodigious frontal development of "Ma Brudda Sylvest," have become hunchbacked from the weight of metal their numerous affiliations made it necessary for them to bear on their chest.

These societies are of all kinds and for all purposes. Some are very strong and powerful. There is Tau Lambda Kappa, for instance. If you pay your initiation fee and join this mighty association, your reputation in the field of learning is made and thenceforth you need work no more, for your professors are constrained to give you perfect grades. You are no longer a student; you are a scholar.

Many exist solely for utterly evil and vicious ends. They are founded on the most depraved and corrupt principles, and their members are soon reduced by gross debauchery to the most vitiated wrecks. The Egyptian Club is a prominent instance of this type of society, and the egregious immorality of their notorious orgies is a foul blot on the fair name of our Alma Mater.

There are mutual promotion and advancement clubs like Phi Thelta Data for men and Alfalpha for women, whose only requirement for admission is a well-developed bump of ambition. If you do not wear suspenders and eat pie with a fork you can join Tau Delta Tau. Alpha Kappa Theta is a self-constituted criterion of all that is correct and proper, and woe be unto him who trangresses their mandates—hopeless social oblivion. Then we find neighborhood clubs like the McHenry County Club, comprising all students from McHenry County, and Pi Happa Sigh which is composed of old residents of Springfield. If you cultivate an intellectual look, weigh over two hundred and fifty pounds and eat Grape Nuts, you are eligible to membership in Gappa Gappa Kamma. It is not necessary to tell which is the most prominent organization in the university—the real thing—just ask any Reke. Those who prefer the simple life and like a nice, peaceful existence in graveyard peace, buy a membership in the local branch of the Epworth League at 301 John street. Other clubs do Christian Endeavor and similar religious missionary work like Hoxan, which has grown to such a size that it has established branches in Milwaukee, St. Louis, Peoria, and Danville.

One of the latest organizations is the Scab and Bladder, formed in order to give the trusty protectors of our commonwealth an opportunity to while away the hours of peace with the fairer sex in the maizes of Terpsichore. One would think the Hellmet society is also composed of the stalwart wielders of sword and gun from its name, but on the contrary it partakes more of the nature of a rural sewing circle, and many rich tidbits of repeatable gossip originate at their sessions, which are chiefly devoted to the collection of dues, however.

The honorary upper class sodalities are well known, too. In fact, they advertise in the daily papers, and so have become very influential organizations. We are constantly hearing of Speonix and Field and Strident, and this worthy movement they inaugurate. Their doctrines are very esoteric, although it is said that their meetings are devoted entirely to lengthy discussions about which is the more honorable.

Perhaps the most select clubs around the university are those devoted to society. These are as exclusive as any of the university organizations, and membership guarantees entry into the very best social circles. Some students are said to work four years in order to make these organizations, and they consider their certificates of more value than their college diplomas. The College and Orange and Blue Clubs represent very well this kind of order.

We must not omit mention of Fu Flux, which meets at midnight when the moon is in the fourth quarter, in the northeast corner of the cellar of the far cow barn on the south campus. No one may penetrate their awful secrecy without horrible punishment, the least penalty for intrusion into their mystic circle being instantaneous death. No initiate may profane with his presence their profound deliberations. They serve at their meetings, which are devoted to obstruse investigations into why the Boneyard is only six inches deep, and kindred questions, pop-corn and sterilized milk.

There would seem to be enough varieties of organizations for anyone. Yet some are not satisfied and must start others, so that they may be the big frog, even if it is in the little pool. So, more societies are born every day. Soon the field will be covered, and if the newcomer cannot become a member of any of the regular clubs, he will have to pay a dollar and join a Pantatorium.

ADAM

Adam, made of common earth,
Seemed to be of little worth;
Giving him his full desert,
Still he seemed as cheap as dirt.

Smacked a good deal of the soil,
Adam did, but shirked all toil;
Yet he asked no man for trust,
Being simply made of dust.

"Sandy" beard and "sandy" hair,
Also had a "stony stare;"
And, before h isflesh ran blood,
I suppose his name was "mud."

Poor old Adam, formed in clay,
Wasn't of the stuff to stay;
One more process was required—
That's the reason he was fired.

Mr. Business Manager,

We respectfully call your attention to the illustrations in this book which were executed by us.

Our organization for high grade college work is positively the best in the country, because we are not only practical artists and engravers with ability to carry out your own ideas, but also college men who know the requirements and can make valuable suggestions. In our large and well equipped plant your work receives the personal attention of up-to-date experts in every department.

Our experience enables us to not only make your book original but to get it out on time. Give us a general idea of the size of your annual and we will be glad to quote you our prices and tell you more about the advantages which we have to offer.

Very truly youre,

If what we have written should fail to please
'Tis best no longer to offend;
So here our errors, our weak attempts,
Our vain endeavors, shall take their end.

But though our efforts should please your soul,
We shall no longer our powers expend;
However it be, the curtain falls,
And here, at last, we write "The End."
